Carlos Barria | Reuters President Donald Trump made a personal request to Senate Republican leader Mitch McConnell on Tuesday to confirm Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh before the midterms — leaving the GOP leader without wiggle room to back off. McConnell declined to comment on what Trump said to him. A McConnell spokesman said that Trump has yet to nominate another candidate to replace retiring Justice Anthony Kennedy. Trump says he was almost finished with his choices and hoped they would be confirmed before the election. It appeared that the president had pivoted to two federal
